October 14th
The Power of Youtube Lecturing
Dr. John A.W. Harkless
10:00am-11:30am, Room 205

Dr. John A.W. Harkless is an award-winning Associate Professor of chemistry at Howard University. As a speaker, he provides unique insights into science and society, generational differences in the classroom and workplace, the use of social media technologies in both formal and informal instructional settings, and the power of storytelling to captivate audiences, build communities, and catalyze collaborative problem-solving.

October 15th
The New Diversity: Academia at the Crossroads
Dr. Anita Nahal
12:00pm-1:30pm, Room 205

Dr. Anita Nahal is an award-winning author and consultant who has also held the position as Assistant Provost for International Programs at Howard University. She is known for her significant work in multiculturalism and has published books ranging from poetry to overcoming adversity in the workplace. She has also created and hosted her own TV show, Dimensions of Diversity. Her extensive experience in teaching, administration, writing, publishing, and mentoring allows her to provide insight onto various aspects of diversity.